Internet
Day 2021

This year's theme is:

An internet we trust

Exploring reliability in the online world

What is Safer Internet Day?

Let's celebrate all the great things about being online!

What is Safer Internet Day?

Safer internet is a day celebrated across the globe in over 170 countries, with thousands of children joining in across the UK. It's a day when we celebrate all the great things about being online and remind ourselves how we can stay safe.

You can watch the 15 minute assembly by clicking the blue link below, which will go through the next few slides or you can just read through yourself in your own time.

An internet we trust

Exploring reliability in the online world

Today we're thinking about trust online.

What is trust?

Can we trust everything we see online?

What do you think?

Can you think of any examples?

Game

We are now going to play a game called 'Trust it or Check it?'

I will show you an example of something you might see online.

I would like you to think about whether you would trust it, or not trust it and check with an adult.

We will also be looking at how seeing each of these examples online might make us feel.

If you saw this trade in an online game would you trust it or check it?

This looks like someone is trying to make an unofficial trade. Agreeing on a trade should always be done using the official trading system in the game - this will make sure it is safe and trustworthy. Make sure that you feel the trade is fair before accepting.

If you saw this chain message online would you trust it or check it?

It can be worrying if you receive a chain message. It's important to remember that these are not true. However, if you are worried by what you have read or seen it's always good to talk to an adult you trust. It's best not to share these on as this might cause more people to worry.

If you saw this news headline online would you trust it or check it?

This example looks like it could be a joke. People usually share jokes to make people laugh. They tend to be very exaggerated, or they can be sarcastic (saying one thing, but meaning the opposite) and might even be trying to make fun of something or someone. It's important to read past the headline and look at who it is written by.

If you saw this competition online would you trust it or check it?

It can be really tempting to enter competitions online and sometimes they are genuine, and you can win some great prizes! It can be helpful to think to yourself that if something seems too good to be true online, it probably isn't true. This might be an example of 'phishing.' It's probably trying to collect personal information such as usernames and emails to gain access to people's accounts. Be careful about sharing personal information online and always check with an adult before entering any competitions.

If you saw this video online would you trust it or check it?

Remember that just like photos, videos can be edited too. You also might not be given all the correct information. In this example, where it says 'first time trick shot', this probably isn't true and more than likely took a lot of time and effort.

If you received this message online would you trust it or check it?

Make sure you always keep your personal information safe online. If a stranger online asks to meet up, for any personal information or for pictures or videos it is really important not to share any of these and to tell an adult you trust straight away. They can help you and make sure the correct action is taken, like blocking the user so they can't contact you again and making a report.

Trust it or check it?

Great job

What should you do?

Think of yourself as an internet detective, and actively try to find out more. It's really important to question things online. Ask yourself: What is it trying to get me to do? What are the risks?

You could ask an adult or look on another website or app - three is a good number to check! You could also look in a book.

Being an internet detective will help you to become more aware and make sensible decisions on whether something is trustworthy online, but remember, just like in the game we played today, we also need to think about how what we see online makes us feel.
