What's going on this week?

Look at this week's poster on the first page.

The celebration for NHS staff, formally known as 'Clap for Carers', returned under the new name of 'Clap for Heroes' on the 7th of January, announced by the initiative's founder, Annemarie Plas.

The weekly applause for front-line NHS staff and other key workers ran for 10 weeks during the UK's first coronavirus lockdown last spring.

This time the initiative is celebrating not just NHS and key workers but also extends to home-schooling parents, those who are shielding and all who are pushing through this period.

Main Question:

How can we show our thanks to those who help us?

Look at the speech bubbles. They share how some people feel about the 'Clap for Heroes' initiative. What do you think? Out of the four responses, which one is closest to yours?

I think clapping for our heroes is brilliant. It is a wonderful way to show our appreciation and thanks. We can celebrate the work people are doing and the sacrifices they have made. It also gives us a sense of community - on our street, in our town, in our country. It is a time when we can come together without actually coming together.

Angelika

I actually think that if celebrating and clapping for heroes on a Thursday helps someone feel positive and gives them a way to say thank you then they should do it. If they don't want to take part then that is fine also.

Jimmy

I will not be taking part in clapping for our heroes as I don't think there is any point. I think key workers would prefer that I show my appreciation by following the rules and staying at home.

Dasia

I took part in the 'Clap for Carers' the first time around but I am not going to take part in clapping for our heroes as I feel like this time round it has caused more of a divide in our community as everyone has different opinions about it.

KS2 Follow-up activities

Think about somebody who has been your hero this year.

- Who is your hero? A key worker, a parent, a friend?
- What do they look like? Think about physical appearance.
- What are they like? Describe their personality e.g. bubbly, hardworking, courageous.
- Why are they your hero? Have they helped others? Have they made sacrifices?

Record ambitious adjectives that you could use before creating a description of your hero. You could organise your ideas into paragraphs or as a fact file. Include a picture/drawing!

KS2 Follow-up activities

Try these maths questions linked to 'Clap for Carers'.

The first 'Clap for Carers' was 10 weeks long.

- How many days in a week?
- How many days in 10 weeks?
- How many hours in a day?
- How many hours in 10 weeks?

There are 4 houses on your street, each with a family of 5.

- How many people clapped in total?
- Each person clapped for 2 minutes, how many minutes did they clap in 10 weeks?

Have a go at creating your own questions for someone else to answer!

Reflection

- People sometimes clap to celebrate something or someone. This can help to show they have enjoyed or appreciated something or to encourage or thank someone.
- There are many ways we can show our thanks and gratitude to others. Both the 'Clap for Carers' and the 'Clap for Heroes' initiatives provide people with a way to publicly show their support and thanks.
- Different people have different opinions about the 'Clap for Heroes' initiative. Not everyone will agree all of the time. Sometimes we have to agree to disagree.

Mutual Respect and Tolerance

Every individual has their own idea about how to say thank you to others. I respect the fact that their ideas may not be the same as mine.
